Basis of Presentation

RISK FACTORS

An investment in our Class A common stock involves a high degree of risk. You should carefully consider the risks described below, together with all of the other information in this prospectus, before deciding to invest. If any of these risks actually occurs, the trading price of our Class A common stock could decline, and you may lose all or part of your investment.

Risks Related to Our Business and Industry

Our recent growth rates may not be indicative of our future growth. Our revenue grew 41% in 2025, and we expect our revenue growth rate to decline in future periods as we scale. Factors that may cause our growth to slow include increased competition, market saturation, and the maturation of our existing customer base.

We have a history of net losses, we expect to continue to incur net losses in the near term, and we may not achieve or maintain profitability. We intend to continue to make investments in research and development and sales and marketing, and these investments may not result in increased revenue.

If we fail to maintain adequate internal control over financial reporting, we may be unable to accurately report our financial results, which could harm our reputation and adversely affect the trading price of our Class A common stock.

Risks Related to Our Intellectual Property

Third parties may initiate litigation alleging that we have infringed their proprietary rights. Any such litigation could be costly and could divert management’s attention from our business. Even if we are successful, the expense and time required to resolve these disputes may be significant.

USE OF PROCEEDS

We estimate that our gross proceeds from this offering will be approximately $208.0 million, based on an assumed initial public offering price of $26.00 per share, after deducting the underwriting discount and estimated offering expenses payable by us.

We estimate that our net proceeds from this offering will be approximately $193.2 million. We will not receive any proceeds from the sale of shares by the selling stockholders.

	Amount
Gross proceeds	$208.0 million
Underwriting discount (7.0%)	$14.6 million
Estimated offering expenses	$1.8 million
Net proceeds to us	$191.6 million

The principal purposes of this offering are to increase our capitalization and financial flexibility, create a public market for our Class A common stock and enable access to the public equity markets. We currently intend to use the net proceeds as follows:

- approximately $70 million for research and development; and
- the remainder for working capital and general corporate purposes, which may include acquisitions.

The amounts and timing of these expenditures will depend on numerous factors, including the timing and progress of our product development efforts and the amount of cash used in our operations.

UNDERWRITING

We and the selling stockholders have entered into an underwriting agreement with the underwriters named in this prospectus. Subject to the terms and conditions of the underwriting agreement, each underwriter has severally agreed to purchase, and we and the selling stockholders have agreed to sell to that underwriter, the number of shares of Class A common stock set forth opposite its name.

The underwriters have an option for a period of 30 days to purchase up to 1,200,000 additional shares of Class A common stock at the initial public offering price, less underwriting discounts and commissions. This greenshoe option is intended to cover over-allotments, if any, in connection with this offering.

The underwriters may conduct over-allotment transactions by selling more shares than they are obligated to purchase. If the underwriters sell more shares than committed, they may purchase additional shares in the open market or exercise the greenshoe option in whole or in part.

The underwriters may also engage in stabilization transactions in connection with this offering. Any stabilization activity may be discontinued at any time and will be conducted in accordance with applicable rules.

Commissions and Discounts

The underwriting discount is 7.0% of the initial public offering price. The following table shows the underwriting discount and proceeds before expenses, assuming both no exercise and full exercise of the option:

	Without option	With full option
Gross proceeds	$208,000,000	$239,200,000
Underwriting discount	$14,560,000	$16,744,000

DESCRIPTION OF CAPITAL STOCK

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation will become effective upon the completion of this offering. Immediately following this offering, our authorized capital stock will consist of 500,000,000 shares of Class A common stock and 100,000,000 shares of Class B common stock.

Preferred Stock

Our preferred stock currently outstanding will convert into common stock upon the completion of this offering. Prior to conversion, each share of preferred stock carried a liquidation preference of one times the original issue price, plus any declared but unpaid dividends. The liquidation preference ranked senior to all classes of common stock in the event of a liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the Company.

We currently have no plans to issue preferred stock. However, our board of directors has the authority to issue preferred stock with voting and other rights that could adversely affect the holders of common stock.

Anti-Dilution Provisions

The conversion price of our previously outstanding preferred stock was subject to anti-dilution adjustment on a weighted average basis in the event that we issued additional shares at a price below the then-effective conversion price. No such adjustments occurred during the periods presented.

Drag-Along and Tag-Along Rights

Our stockholders' agreement provided that, upon approval of the holders of a majority of our outstanding preferred stock, all stockholders party to the agreement were required to vote in favor of a change of control and to sell their shares on the same terms. Following this offering, these drag-along rights will terminate.

The agreement also provided tag-along rights, permitting minority holders to participate in a sale of control by the founding holders on a pro rata basis. These rights will also terminate upon completion of this offering.

The following table sets forth information regarding the beneficial ownership of our capital stock as of June 30, 2026, and as adjusted to reflect the sale of Class A common stock in this offering, by each person known to us to be the beneficial owner of more than 5% of our voting securities, each of our directors and named executive officers, and all directors and executive officers as a group.

The selling stockholders are selling an aggregate of 1,600,000 shares of Class A common stock in this offering. We will not receive any of the proceeds from the sale of shares by the selling stockholders. The selling stockholders may include entities affiliated with our founding investors that acquired their shares prior to our initial public offering.

Beneficial ownership is determined in accordance with the rules of the SEC and includes shares over which the person has sole or shared voting or investment power.

SHARES ELIGIBLE FOR FUTURE SALE

Immediately prior to this offering, there has been no public market for our Class A common stock. Future sales of substantial amounts of our Class A common stock in the public market, or the perception that such sales could occur, could adversely affect the prevailing market price of our Class A common stock.

Upon completion of this offering, we will have 38,942,110 shares of Class A common stock outstanding, assuming no exercise of the option granted to the underwriters. Of these shares, the 8,000,000 shares sold in this offering will be freely tradable without restriction under the Securities Act.

Our directors, executive officers and holders of substantially all of our equity securities have agreed with the underwriters that they will not, without the prior written consent of the representatives, offer, sell, contract to sell or otherwise dispose of any shares of our capital stock during the lock-up period ending 180 days after the date of this prospectus.

Following the expiration of the lock-up period, additional shares will become eligible for sale in the public market, and the resulting overhang may exert downward pressure on the trading price of our Class A common stock. The selling stockholders and certain other holders will also be entitled to registration rights.

Rule 144

In general, under Rule 144 as currently in effect, once we have been subject to the public company reporting requirements for 90 days, a person who is not deemed to have been one of our affiliates may sell freely all shares that were acquired from us more than six months previously.
